GOVERNOR TAKES HAND IN FUR FARM CASE

GUY B. BRUBAKER DISMISSED, TOOK PLACE JANUARY 30

LATTER WAS ATTORNEY-INVESTIGATOR FOR STATE SECURITIES COMMISSIONER

CHARGED WITH ALLEGED IRREGULARITIES IN INVESTIGATING FUR FARM

St. Paul, Feb. 10.—Guy B. Brubaker, attorney-investigator for the state securities commissioner, has been dismissed for alleged irregularities in his investigation of the Ten Thousand Lakes Fur Farms Corporation.

Gov. Theodore Christianson said the dismissal came because Brubaker allegedly destroyed some records in the fur farms case.

He was dismissed Jan. 30, the governor said, but he had refrained from making any announcement of it because the matter was then before the Hennepin county grand jury.

The records destroyed, the governor said, were of little importance in the investigation, being letters bearing on the case of which copies had been made.

The governor said Brubaker gave no reason for his actions.

The records destroyed were taken only from one file, the governor said. Information on the removal, Governor Christianson said, was submitted to Floyd B. Olson, Hennepin county attorney.

Brubaker is now reported under the care of a physician.

Minneapolis, Feb. 10.—Stockholders in the Ten Thousand Lakes Fur Farms Corporation will be asked to give evidence upon which may be based the prosecution of officials of the concern, Floyd B. Olson, Hennepin county attorney, indicated today.

Olson was said to have requested the United States district attorney's office for a list of Hennepin county residents who invested in the corporation. It was believed he will seek evidence that the firm violated the postal laws in selling stock.

Members of the Hennepin county grand jury declined to comment on reports that Guy B. Brubaker, secretary of the state securities commission, may be called for questioning about the alleged disappearance of records from his office.

Any new evidence that may be discovered will be presented to the grand jury when it convenes Tuesday, it was said. Brubaker's appearance was believed scheduled for that time.

PARROT FEVER
ANTITOXIN USED FOR FIRST TIME

Washington, Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—A peitacosis antitoxin was used for the first time today in the case of Dr. Charles Armstrong of the U. S. public health service, who is critically ill of parrot fever at Naval hospital.

The serum, prepared from the blood of persons who have recovered from the malady, was used immediately after Dr. Armstrong's case was diagnosed definitely as peitacosis by the hygienic laboratory of the public health service. The antitoxin had been brought here from Baltimore.

CLUE TO STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE OF

Paris, Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Another clue to the strange disappearance of General Alexander Pavlovich Koutepoff, missing white Russian leader, led up a blind alley when French detectives investigating reports that the anti-Soviet leader had been seen in Berlin, could find no evidence to support the rumor. Police began today to consider seriously the report that Koutepoff slipped quietly away voluntarily "for the good of the white Russian cause."

Herrera is Elected President of Colombia

Bogota, Colombia, Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Enrique Olaya Herrera has been elected president of Colombia by a large majority, early returns on the balloting indicated today. The election was without incident, the voters going to the polls in an unusually orderly manner. The government had ordered all saloons closed Saturday night until this morning.

GALES RECORDED IN NEWFOUNDLAND

St. Johns, N. F., Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Gales, at times reaching hurricane force, swept the south and east coasts of Newfoundland for 24 hours yesterday, delaying departure of the Red Cross and Furco liners Rosalind and Nova Scotia, and other shipping. Several buildings were unroofed in the storm, windows were broken, trees were uprooted and many farm buildings demolished.

MAURICE MILLER MISSING 40 HOURS NEAR LAKE OF THE WOODS

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Col. L. H. Brittin, president of Northwest Airways, Inc., today announced he had received a radio message that Maurice Miller, airplane pilot missing in the northern Minnesota wilderness, was safe at Oak Island, Minn., after a forced landing.

A telegram received by Colonel Brittin from Baudette follows:

"Reports by radio from Northwest Angle reports Pilot Miller landed on lake to avoid storm and walked to Hay Island. No communication with Hay Island so Pilot Miller walked to Oak Island to report this morning after the storm subsided."

"(Signed) C. H. Dadds, Mayor."

Oak Island, Minn., Feb. 10.—Maurice Miller, youthful airplane pilot, today told the United Press in an interview how he battled for five hours through a raging blizzard to civilization after his plane crashed on a mercy flight with food and supplies to isolated northern Minnesota settlements.

Completely exhausted, Miller staggered into this little outpost late on Saturday. He had left earlier in the day from Baudette for Penasse, a village 62 miles to the north, with mail and food for the marooned residents.

"Shortly after I flew over Oak Island," Miller said, "the plane ran into a driving snowstorm. I couldn't see a foot either way and the wind constantly threw the ship off her keel. After holding the plane on my course for a few minutes, I knew a crash was coming. Then we hit the ice of a lake and the plane cracked up."

"I set out to retrace my route back to Oak Island. The blizzard drove through my clothing and numbed my whole body. I must have walked in circles because it took me five hours to walk eight miles here from where the crash occurred."

Miller escaped with "only a few scratches" but said the plane was damaged beyond repair.

Baudette, Minn., Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Parties organized today to search through this blizzard swept section near the Lake of the Woods for Maurice Miller, air mail pilot missing 40 hours.

Miller took off here at 4 P. M. Saturday for Penasse, the northernmost point in Minnesota. He has not been heard from since. Postmaster Paul Sanderson told the United Press today.

Sanderson said there was a slight snow storm Saturday afternoon shortly after Miller left here and that a blizzard had swept over the entire section near the Lake of the Woods yesterday. If Miller were forced down, he said he feared that he might suffer intensely from the cold.

The local postmaster sent an appeal for help to J. P. Johnston, postal inspector in St. Paul, asking that airplanes be sent here from the Twin Cities as soon as possible.

Minneapolis, Feb. 10.—Charles W. (Speed) Holman, Northwest Airways air mail pilot, took off from Wold-Chamberlin field today for Baudette, Minn., to search for Maurice Miller, a pilot friend missing since Saturday on a relief flight over the northern Minnesota wilderness.

Holman flew a standard night mail plane with a flying speed of 175 miles an hour and a cruising range of 204 miles. He planned to reach Baudette by 1 P. M., pick up the lost pilot's trail and scout over the barren northland until he sights Miller's plane.

Col. L. H. Brittin, president of the Northwest Airways, ordered the search started when he was informed by the United Press that no word of the missing flier had reached Baudette early today.

"Holman knows the region to be covered very well," Col. Brittin said, "and he believes the search should be started as soon as possible. There is great danger to Miller's safety unless he is found within the next few hours."

U. S. Asks to Build 1 New Battleship Equal to

ON U. S. POSITION

RODNEY IS 33,000-TON OIL BURNING SHIP, WITH A HEAVY ARMAMENT

AMERICAN SUGGESTION PLANS
SCRAPPING BY JAPAN 1 SHIP,
ENGLAND 5, U. S. 3

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Feb. 10.—The United States has proposed to Great Britain that America be permitted to build one new battleship equal to the British battleship Rodney, it was learned today on highest authority.

The proposal was made in the recent memorandum outlining the United States' position and needs.

The Rodney, completed in 1927, is a 33,000-ton ship, oil burning, and armed with nine 6-inch guns, 12 6-inch guns, six 4.7-inch guns and 28 smaller weapons.

No American vessel is as heavily armed.

The American suggestion contemplates the scrapping by Japan of one battleship, by Great Britain of five, and by the United States of three—with the provision that a fourth old ship, such as the Arkansas, for instance, could be replaced by a new battleship of the Rodney type.

The Arkansas and Wyoming were built in 1912, and are armed with 12 12-inch guns, 16 5-inch guns and eight 3-inch guns.

This suggestion was contained in the draft of the American proposal submitted to the British and Japanese, but the suggestion of the new American battleship to replace a discarded vessel was suppressed in the summary made public by Henry L. Stimson last week.

The United Press learned authoritatively that it is not planned to revive the order in which British ships will be scrapped under the terms of the Washington treaty, but that the British will be expected to go straight down the line in their scrapping program, beginning with their older ships.

Until confirmation of reports that America would seek to build one new battleship was obtained today, it had been assumed everywhere that the United States would be the last of the powers to propose building any new ships of that type.

In Stimson's statement to the public he made no reference to this proposal, and the inference that there would be no such suggestion was drawn everywhere until the terms of his secret provision leaked from other quarters.

TRIM HOUSE BOAT, SAUNTERER,
TO BE OCCUPIED AT LONG
KEY, FLORIDA

Long Key, Fla., Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—President Hoover's fishing party arrived at 6:20 A. M. today. It was still dark when the chief executive's train rolled into the station and the Hoover party remained on board for some time before detaining.

The Saunterer, trimmest of houseboats, stood ready at her dock to receive Mr. Hoover, Associate Justice Stone of the supreme court, Mark Sullivan, Washington journalist; Dr. Vernon Kellogg, noted scientist, and the wives of the former three.

Close alongside the Saunterer was the Kilkenny, department of commerce cruiser, to furnish a living place for Laurence Rickay, Mr. Hoover's secretary; Mrs. Rickay, and a few members of the White House secretarial staff during their chief's week of fishing and resting in Florida waters. Still another boat was ready for the secret service operatives, presidential guardians, who will hover near the president during his fishing expedition.

The president and Mrs. Hoover left their car at 6:30 A. M. and walked across the palm-studded island to where the Saunterer was docked. They paused at the wharf to greet the officers of the Kilkenny and chatted for a moment about previous vacations on that craft when Mr. Hoover was secretary of commerce.

The Hoover's then ascended the short gangplank of the Saunterer. As they boarded the boat the president's ensign, a four starred blue banner bearing the great seal of the United States, was run up on the mast.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Milbank of New York City, owners of the boat, greeted the Hoovers and accompanied them aboard. They will not go on the fishing trip.

Soon Mr. Hoover stepped to the rail while a battery of cameramen cranked reels and clicked shutters. Finally he raised his hand, smiled genially and entered the cabin.

Shortly afterward the Sullivan, Stones and Kelloggs came aboard. Sullivan alone wore the white flannels and blue coat associated with yachting. Mr. Hoover was clad in a dark blue suit and Mrs. Hoover in light brown jersey dress.

After the Hoover party had finished breakfast, the Saunterer put out to sea. By nine o'clock it was but a white speck on the horizon where a grey sky met a green sea. Despite an earlier prediction of good weather, the sky was cloudy as Mr. Hoover began his week of fishing.

Accompanying the large White House boat—trim as a cruiser, but slower in speed—were the speed boats Arco, Miss Sally and Good Times. Mr. Hoover will transfer to the former when he nears the fishing banks and will return to the Saunterer only to rest, eat and sleep.

STRATEGIC WIN

CHICAGO POLICE

HEAVY OFFENSIVE IS LEVELED
AT GANGLAND, 1,000 PERSONS ARRESTED

2 MURDERS, 2 SHOOTINGS OCCUR
AS POLICE LITERALLY
PICKET CITY

By RAY BLACK
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Feb. 10.—A strategic victory was claimed by police today in their offensive against gangland although of the approximately 1,000 persons arrested not one was a ranking officer in the host of racket sharpshooters, machine gunners, "pine apple" hurlers and underworld wreathers that have made the city streets a No Man's Land.

Two murders and two shootings occurred as police literally picketed the city, rounding up hoodlums, known criminals and suspicious characters.

The eighth and ninth killings in 10 days of street war came when an automobile load of intoxicated youths aroused the ire of a machine load of negroes. Guns blazed from the negroes' car and two of the youths were wounded mortally. Anthony Kiburg, 20, was slumped over the steering wheel and Herbert Gers, 19, had slid to the floor from the back seat.

Under the arc lights at the detective bureau yesterday 451 prisoners passed in parade. The remainder of the 917 had satisfied authorities they had no connection with the crime wave and were released immediately. Of the suspects who walked through the gigantic "show-up" while police, newspapermen and victims of holdups, robberies, kidnappings, sluggings and assaults looked on, there were 271 with police records.

But the generals, colonels, majors and captains of the gang armies were conspicuously absent. Reports from gangland said they had learned of the police drive as early as last Thursday and had beat a hasty retreat to other cities or entrenched in some hide-out.

Twenty guns were found on the prisoners examined yesterday. Those who carried them will face indictments today. Scores of others were taken back to cells to await further attempts at identification.

"These drives are to continue without let-up," Police Commissioner William F. Russell said. "The police are going to kill these hoodlums, put them in prison or drive them out of the city. I am tired of having a lot of cheap gun carriers think they can rule a big city like Chicago."

Police exchanged shot for shot with the gunmen in the drive. At the Orrington hotel on the north shore, officers fought a pistol battle with three youths who had just held up the clerk and a guest. The trio, Oliver Dilworth, Arthur Miller and George Sturgeon, and a fourth, Roscoe Kilpatrick, who waited in an automobile outside, were among those in the show-up.

RECEIVED IN AUDIENCE BY POPE PIUS, TO WHOM HE REPORTS

Vatican City, Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli was today formally installed as secretary of state of the Holy See, succeeding Cardinal Gasparri.

The new secretary of state conferred with various subordinate officials in his department, after which he was received in an audience by Pope Pius, to whom he reported for the first time in his new capacity.

It is understood that Cardinal Gasparri will remain in his apartment at the vatican for a few days, before taking up his residence at the villa given him as a place of retirement by the pope.

Cardinal Pacelli, who was raised to the cardinalate upon the occasion of Pope Pius' last consistory, was formerly papal nuncio to Berlin.

The retirement of Cardinal Gasparri, who had attained his greatest wish as secretary of state—to see a concordat between the Holy See and the Italian government which would end the long "imprisonment" of the pope and re-create the vatican state—had been expected since late in December.

Rochester, Minn., Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Four men today were held without charge for federal authorities after a police raid uncovered a crude counterfeiting plant in a shack at the outskirts of the city.

The men held were Leonard, William and Howard Oswald, brothers, and Charles Sackett, all of Rochester. The plant was said to have been devoted to the counterfeiting of 50 cent pieces, a quantity of which were passed here.

Equipment found in the shack included steel stamps, a few tools and heating devices for melting down silver and lead.

Federal officials at St. Paul were notified and were expected to arrive here late today to make the four men in custody.

INVOLVES MORE

N. Y. TO LOS ANGELES

SOLD $60,000,000 ALCOHOL DIVERTED FROM GOVERNMENT SOURCES

SPECIAL FEDERAL INVESTIGATORS WORKING OUT OF CHICAGO DISCOVER PLOT

Chicago, Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—A copy-righted story in the Chicago Herald and Examiner today said that the biggest liquor conspiracy in prohibition enforcement history, involving more than 150 persons who operated in cities from New York to Los Angeles and sold $60,000,000 worth of alcohol diverted from government sources had been uncovered by special federal investigators working out of here.

The story predicted a congressional investigation.

Alexander G. Jamie, chief of the special government agents, was named as the man mainly responsible for disclosing the conspiracy. He had been working on the case since last July, it was said.

The Herald and Examiner quoted government agents as saying they had traced 4,000,000 gallons of alcohol diverted by the syndicate to Chicago and New York alone and that other shipments went to Kansas City, San Francisco, Los Angeles and other large cities.

Investigators were quoted as declaring that an alcohol shipment by a drug company to a chemist, described as a former Bulgarian chemist who started disinfectant and chemical companies here, led to discovery of the ring.

"In 1923," the story said, "the chemist was credited with discovering a formula for extracting the essential oils from hair tonics, perfumes, etc. Previously bootleggers had found it possible to extract government denaturants easily enough by distilling but had never attained satisfactory results in trying to recock the flavor from concoctions which are advertised to grow hair and add allure to milady's make-up."

"Firms suddenly sprang into being as perfumery plants, obtaining permits for the withdrawal of alcohol from government-licensed stations. In many of these the chemist's services are said to have been in demand professionally."

The story goes on to say that as soon as the federal investigators satisfied themselves as to the reason for the chemist's sudden rise to wealth, they turned to a drug company in New York and found that its head was a Chicagoan, who left here in 1927 following a six months' sentence for prohibition law violation.

It has been declared there has been unusual activity in the offices of United States District Attorney Geo. Q. Johnson, and Oliver Pagan, indictment expert. The grand jury reconvenes today. The Herald and Examiner stated it had learned that foundation for a congressional inquiry had been laid.

Washington, Feb. 10.—An investigation into a gigantic bootleg ring operating in nearly every large city, with headquarters at Chicago, has been under way by the prohibition bureau for several months, Assistant Prohibition Commissioner Anslinger said today.

Preliminary findings have already been submitted to a Chicago grand jury. Prohibition Commissioner Doran was in Chicago today to supervise personally a further study of the situation.

HOOVER FISHING PARTY AT CAMP

TRIM HOUSE BOAT, SAUNTERER,
TO BE OCCUPIED AT LONG
KEY, FLORIDA

Long Key, Fla., Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—President Hoover's fishing party arrived at 6:20 A. M. today. It was still dark when the chief executive's train rolled into the station and the Hoover party remained on board for some time before detraining.

The Saunterer, trimmest of houseboats, stood ready at her dock to receive Mr. Hoover, Associate Justice Stone of the supreme court, Mark Sullivan, Washington journalist; Dr. Vernon Kellogg, noted scientist, and the wives of the former three.

Close alongside the Saunterer was the Kilkenny, department of commerce cruiser, to furnish a living place for Laurence Rickey, Mr. Hoover's secretary; Mrs. Rickey, and a few members of the White House secretarial staff during their chief's week of fishing and resting in Florida waters. Still another boat was ready for the secret service operatives, presidential guards, who will hover near the president during his fishing exhibition.

The president and Mrs. Hoover left their car at 6:30 A. M. and walked across the palm-studded island to where the Saunterer was docked. They paused at the wharf to greet the officers of the Kilkenny and chatted for a moment about previous vacations on that craft when Mr. Hoover was secretary of commerce.

The Hoover's then ascended the short gangplank of the Saunterer. As they boarded the boat the president's ensign, a four starred blue banner bearing the great seal of the United States, was run up on the mast.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Milbank of New York City, owners of the boat, greeted the Hoovers and accompanied them aboard. They will not go on the fishing trip.

Soon Mr. Hoover stepped to the rail while a battery of cameramen cranked reels and clicked shutters. Finally he raised his hand, smiled genially and entered the cabin.

Shortly afterward the Sullivans, Stones and Kelloggs came aboard. Sullivan alone wore the white flannels and blue coat associated with yachting. Mr. Hoover was clad in a dark blue suit and Mrs. Hoover in light brown jersey dress.

After the Hoover party had finished breakfast, the Saunterer put out to sea. By nine o'clock it was but a white speck on the horizon where a grey sky met a green sea. Despite an earlier prediction of good weather, the sky was cloudy as Mr. Hoover has his week of fishing.

Accompanying the large White House boat—trim as a cruiser, but slower in speed—were the speed boats Arco, Miss Sally and Good Times. Mr. Hoover will transfer to the former when he nears the fishing banks and will return to the Saunterer only to rest, eat and sleep.

STRATEGIC WIN
CLAIMED BY THE
CHICAGO POLICE

HEAVY OFFENSIVE IS LEVELED
AT GANGLAND, 1,000 PER-SONS ARRESTED

2 MURDERS, 2 SHOOTINGS OCCUR
AS POLICE LITERALLY
PICKET CITY

By RAY BLACK
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Feb. 10.—A strategic victory was claimed by police today in their offensive against gangland although of the approximately 1,000 persons arrested not one was a ranking officer in the host of racket sharpshooters, machine gunners, "pineapple" hurlers and underworld urchins that have made the city streets a No Man's Land.

Two murders and two shootings occurred as police literally picketed the city, rounding up hoodlums, known criminals and suspicious characters.

The eighth and ninth killings in 10 days of street war came when an automobile load of intoxicated youths aroused the ire of a machine load of negroes. Guns blazed from the negroes' car and two of the youths were wounded mortally, Anthony Kilburg, 20, was slumped over the steering wheel and Herbert Gers, 19, had slid to the floor from the back seat.

Under the are lights at the detective bureau yesterday 451 prisoners passed in parade. The remainder of the 917 had satisfied authorities they had no connection with the crime wave and were released immediately. Of the suspects who walked through the gigantic "show-up" while police, newspapermen and victims of holdups, robberies, kidnappings, sluggings and assaults looked on, there were 271 with police records.

But the generals, colonels, majors and captains of the gang armies were conspicuously absent. Reports from gangland said they had learned of the police drive as early as last Thursday and had beat a hasty retreat to other cities or entrenched in some hide-out.

"Twenty guns were found on the prisoners examined yesterday. Those who carried them will face indictments today. Scores of others were taken back to cells to await further attempts at identification."

"These drives are to continue without let-up," Police Commissioner William F. Russell said. "The police are going to kill these hoodlums, put them in prison or drive them out of the city. I am tired of having a lot of cheap gun carriers think they can rule a big city like Chicago."

Police exchanged shot for shot with the gunmen in the drive. At the Orrington hotel on the north shore, officers fought a pistol battle with three youths who had just held up the clerk and a guest. The trio, Oliver Dilworth, Arthur Miller and George Sturgeon, and a fourth, Roscoe Kilpatrick, who waited in an automobile outside, were among those in the show-up.

Burbank, Calif., Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Extensive development of the "flying wing," an all-metal airplane of radical design which eliminates fuselage was announced today by W. K. Jay, president of an aircraft corporation.

3 MEN KIDNAP
TRACTION AGENT
AND STEAL $5,000

Indianapolis, Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Three men kidnaped William Gerard, traction agent who carried $5,000, today and speeded northward with a police squad in pursuit.

Gerard, agent at the traction terminal station, was taking the $5,000 to deposit it in a bank when the kidnapers seized him.

CARDINAL PACELLI
NEW SECRETARY OF
STATE OF VATICAN

FORMALLY INSTALLED TODAY, SUCCEEDING CARDINAL
GASPARRI

RECEIVED IN AUDIENCE BY POPE PIUS, TO WHOM HE REPORTS

Vatican City, Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli was today formally installed as secretary of state of the Holy See, succeeding Cardinal Gasparri.

The new secretary of state conferred with various subordinate officials in his department, after which he was received in an audience by Pope Pius, to whom he reported for the first time in his new capacity.

It is understood that Cardinal Gasparri will remain in his apartment at the vatican for a few days, before taking up his residence at the villa given him as a place of retirement by the pope.

Cardinal Pacelli, who was raised to the cardinalate upon the occasion of Pope Pius' last consistory, was formerly papal nuncio to Berlin.

The retirement of Cardinal Gasparri, who had attained his greatest wish as secretary of state—to see a concordat between the Holy See and the Italian government which would end the long "imprisonment" of the pope and re-create the vatican state—had been expected since late in December.

SEVERE STORMS SWEEP BLACK SEA

Sofia, Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Telegraph and telephone systems throughout the country were disrupted and many roofs were blown away yesterday in a storm sweeping in from the Black Sea.

POLICE RAID A CRUDE PLANT OF COUNTERFEITERS

Rochester, Minn., Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Four men today were held without charge for federal authorities after a police raid uncovered a crude counterfeiting plant in a shack at the outskirts of the city.

The men held were Leonard, William and Howard Oswald, brothers, and Charles Sackett, all of Rochester. The plant was said to have been devoted to the counterfeiting of 50 cent pieces, a quantity of which were passed here.

Equipment found in the shack included steel stamps, a few tools and heating devices for melting down silver and lead.

Federal officials at St. Paul were notified and were expected to arrive here late today to make the four men in custody.

INVOLVES MORE THAN 150 PERSONS,
N. Y. TO LOS ANGELES

SOLD $60,000,000 ALCOHOL DIVERTED
FROM GOVERNMENT
SOURCES

SPECIAL FEDERAL INVESTIGATORS
WORKING OUT OF CHICAGO
DISCOVER PLOT

Chicago, Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—A copyrighted story in the Chicago Herald and Examiner today said that the biggest liquor conspiracy in prohibition enforcement history, involving more than 150 persons who operated in cities from New York to Los Angeles and sold $60,000,000 worth of alcohol diverted from government sources had been uncovered by special federal investigators working out of here.

The story predicted a congressional investigation.

Alexander G. Jamie, chief of the special government agents, was named as the man mainly responsible for disclosing the conspiracy. He had been working on the case since last July, it was said.

The Herald and Examiner quoted government agents as saying they had traced 4,000,000 gallons of alcohol diverted by the syndicate to Chicago and New York alone and that other shipments went to Kansas City, San Francisco, Los Angeles and other large cities.

Investigators were quoted as declaring that an alcohol shipment by a drug company to a chemist, described as a former Bulgarian chemist who started disinfectant and chemical companies here, led to discovery of the ring.

"In 1923," the story said, "the chemist was credited with discovering a formula for extracting the essential oils from hair tonics, perfumes, etc. Previously bootleggers had found it possible to extract government denaturants easily enough by distilling but had never attained satisfactory results in trying to recook the flavor from concoctions which are advertised to grow hair and add allure to milady's make-up."

"Firms suddenly sprang into being as perfumery plants, obtaining permits for the withdrawal of alcohol from government-licensed stations. In many of these the chemist's services are said to have been in demand professionally."

The story goes on to say that as soon as the federal investigators satisfied themselves as to the reason for the chemist's sudden rise to wealth, they turned to a drug company in New York and found that its head was a Chicagoan, who left here in 1927 following a six months' sentence for prohibition law violation.

It has been declared there has been unusual activity in the offices of United States District Attorney Geo. Q. Johnson, and Oliver Pagan, indictment expert. The Herald and Examiner stated it had learned that foundation for a congressional inquiry had been laid.

Washington, Feb. 10.—An investigation into a gigantic bootleg ring operating in nearly every large city, with headquarters at Chicago, has been under way by the prohibition bureau for several months, Assistant Prohibition Commissioner Anslinger said today.

Preliminary findings have already been submitted to a Chicago grand jury. Prohibition Commissioner Doran was in Chicago today to supervise personally a further study of the situation.

New Grandeur Films to Have Showing Feb. 28

Los Angeles, Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—The new grandeur film, which gives depth to motion pictures, will have its premiere here Feb. 28. Harold B. Franklin, manager of Fox west coast theaters, announced today. Development of the film represents a cost of $42,000,000 and five years' work by motion picture laboratory experts, Franklin said.

Hoot Gibson to BE MARRIED SOON

Hollywood, Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Hoot Gibson, genial cowboy of the movie lots whose hobby is airplanes, is scheduled for another flier in matrimony. Sally Eilers, actress now appearing in Gibson's latest film, "Trigger Tricks," today was flashing the latest thing in diamond rings, admittedly given her by the actor.

BROTHER OF SCARFACE TO APPEAR IN COURT

Chicago, Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Ralph Capone, brother of "Scarface Al," will appear in federal court today for trial on indictments charging him with defrauding the government on his income tax returns.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

February 10, 1905

William Brown and Thos. McMeekin went to Duluth today as delegates from the junior department to the Y. M. C. A. convention. Joseph Flicker and some of the railroad men expect to go down tomorrow as delegates from the senior body.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Campbell of Minneapolis arrived in the city this afternoon for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. E. B. McCullough and to attend the golden wedding of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Metcalf Saturday night.

P. H. McGarry is interested in seeing a night train put on the M. & I. during the summer months according to the Bemidji Pioneer, and is using his influence with the railway officials to put on the new service.

Rev. and Mrs. E. P. Kuhl arrived today from Fredonia, Kans., to make their home. Mr. Kuhl having accepted the pastorate of the People's Congregational church in East Brainerd.

There has been all kinds of trouble the past few days with frozen water mains. There have been no less than half a dozen freeze-ups in the heart of the city during the past week.

The Cass County Telephone company is being organized at Pequot, the object being to erect lines that will connect the large farming communities in the southern part of the county with some of the villages. Five new connections have recently been made.

The regular annual meeting of the Ladies' Musical club will be held on Saturday afternoon in the Elks' hall. Election of officers will take place after the program.

There is now no question but that St. Cloud will be in the Northern league this season. Brainerd is the next most likely city to be admitted. They have a strong financial backing and there is no doubt but that the city will join the league.

BRAINERD MUSICAL CLUB HAS ELECTION

All Officers Re-elected Except First Vice President, Who Declined Office

3 CLUB DIRECTORS NAMED

Chandra Gooneratne Contrasts Civilizations of East and West

The Musical club election on Saturday afternoon, at Elks' Temple, resulted in the re-election of all officers except First Vice President Mrs. Levi Johnson, who declined re-election. Mrs. Ben Armstrong was unopposed for this office. Balloting for three directors resulted in the election of Mesdames Levi Johnson, A. M. Opsahl and E. R. Burns, of Crosby.

During the balloting, Miss Bernice Steinfeld gave "Bobby Unwelcome"—the selection that tied her for first place in the recent declamatory contest. This was well received.

Following these preliminaries, Chandra Gooneratne gave an interesting lecture on the contrasting civilizations of East and West. His introduction was very spicy—it was all about pepper. He declared that this continent might never have been discovered had it not been for a rise in the price of pepper from five pence a pound to one shilling three pence. As pepper was then the only known food preservative, it was imperative that the price be kept low, and finding a shorter route to India was one method of cutting down freight rates between that country and England.

Mr. Gooneratne also spiced his introduction by a humorous personal application of the well-known story of the tourist who addressed one of the wax figures in a great Parisian department store.

In fact, his lecture was spiced throughout with bits of slang or colloquialisms, which, he said, the foreigner used with great trepidation, "as English was such a treacherous tongue; with his first impressions of a football game and with references to Yankee peculiarities that are known the world over, such as our eternal hurry, our multiplication of wants (largely due to the science of advertising) and our amazing taste for ice-cream in the dead of winter.

But, in the main, his lecture was a serious discussion of the differences between the East and the West based on their different philosophies and different climates, and an admission of the influence of western ideas on India. In this connection, he paid a tribute to the great Scotch missionary, Alexander Duff.

In India, they believe that it takes centuries for the soul to attain perfection. Hence, time is of little value. They believe that men were not created equal and, therefore, the whole social fabric is built up on the inequalities of inheritance. This is what gave them the caste system which divided India into water-tight compartments and created a house divided against itself. He declared that our civilization, being based on equality, was based on an untruth but that we had made it workable and it was influence ing the young, educated Indians. He gave two illustrations to prove this fact. One was the attempt to compel all temples to open their doors to outcasts by assaulting those that refused. This was led by university students. The other example was the organization of a Sweepers' Union by a high-caste Brahmin girl one week after she had received her degree from the university. In India, those who sweep the compound are beneath those who sweep the inside of the house. Hence, a union of these two castes in the interest of higher wages was an indication that industrialism was breaking down the social barriers.

But he said that industrialism as a system that made the man the slave of the machine, was something that India would resist to the utmost. They had seen its effect upon Japan and they wanted none of it. He said that their climate was not suited to strenuous labor or to factory conditions. Furthermore, in a tropical climate people had fewer needs. They live on fruits and vegetables—many of them uncooked—and they need little for clothing or shelter. It is the business of industrialism to create a desire for things and one thing always calls for another and thus wants become many and much time and money are consumed in satisfying these wants and taking care of each individual's collection of property. This makes life very complicated and the East prefers the simple life with its simple pleasures which leave time for meditation.

Another contrast between East and West is the former's veneration for tradition. This, he claimed, had its advantages, as well as its disadvantages. Although the practice of a high-class Brahmin mother of having her child thoroughly scrubbed whenever he came in from the street, lest the shadow of a lower caste person had polluted him, seemed ridiculous to us, many Western mothers would be glad if they were able to keep their children a shadow's length from undesirable associates. Likewise, the reverence of parents and submission to their authority had its advantages. He said that he had always envied the companionship of parents and children in this country, but he deplored the lack of respect shown parents and thought that if they could borrow some of the veneration in which the children of India held their parents, it would be better.

He closed with his own version of Kipling's "East is East and West is West" in which he claimed that the bonds of love would finally unite the two peoples and make them understand each other.

Before the meeting at Elks' Temple, there was a very successful luncheon at the Ransford hotel at which the county nurse, Miss Caroline Walz, gave a very comprehensive report of her work covering health supervision in the county schools, baby and pre-school clinics, in which she emphasized the value of the latter, pre-natal clinics and classes in maternity and infant hygiene, mother craft and general care of the sick. She also described the follow-up work of the school inspection which necessitated home visits to correct unsanitary home conditions, to leave health literature or clothing or anything necessary to make conditions better for the child. She expressed her appreciation of the co-operation she had received from doctors and county officers and all who had the welfare of the children of Crow Wing county at heart.

Mrs. Henry I. Cohen presided at the luncheon program. Miss Mildred O-

Brien led the community singing and Mrs. Louis Knudsen acted as accompanist.

Mrs. L. F. Hawkinson announced the lecture on Russia by Dr. J. W. Cowling, president of Carleton college, to be held in the high school auditorium February 24, at 8 o'clock. This lecture will be open to the public, as a large audience is desired.

The luncheon time was changed to 12:45, instead of 1, and a violin solo by Miss Helen Kelly, of Aitkin, is promised for the next meeting, March 8.

There will be twenty-five prizes in all. In the event of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

25 CASH PRIZES

QUICK! Count the beans—just write the number on a postcard or letter, sign your name and address and mail it in. That's all. If your answer is correct you will be mighty close to winning the big first prize.

This Week We Feature Our Nationally Advertised PORCH FROCKS

$1.79

This year our Porch Frock Event is of special significance to every woman, for in addition to their utility around the home, the styles and fabrics are so smart and new as to make these frocks appropriate for almost any occasion. Thrifty-wise women will be seen wearing them to market, to the country club and to parties, all Summer long.

You may choose from many patterns and designs—each one absolutely fast color—neither soap nor brilliant sunshine will dim their fresh beauty. Seams are closely stitched and hems turned and finished—not basted. And their generous length follows the line of all smart new dresses—well below the knee.

Party frock . . . porch dress and a smart ensemble . . . ALL IN ONE

Choose the porch frock you like best. Make a bright little jacket to wear with it—we have many pretty prints very reasonably priced. Then with a clever little hat and a pair of our 98c full fashioned silk hose, your costume is complete and it cost much less than you have often paid for a dress alone.

Cooperating to Enforce Prohibition Law

SPEAKING in New York last Friday evening, before the Committee of One Thousand at the Roosevelt hotel, Governor Theodore Christianson said every state was obliged to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment with the same zeal it applied to the federal statutes prohibiting slavery or the sale of narcotics.

"Every state has a responsibility for enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment arising out of the terms of the Amendment and out of the oath of every state official to support it," said the governor. He considered it the joint responsibility of the states and the nation, no more to be shirked by one than ignored by the other. "Of course there is no duty on the part of the states to enforce the Volstead act. In fact, a state cannot enforce the Volstead act unless it makes it a part of its own code," said he.

"Abraham Lincoln was an enemy of slavery. He disliked the fugitive slave law as thoroughly as any opponent of prohibition disliked the Eighteenth Amendment today. If Lincoln, resentful of a law which violated every human right, counselled obedience to it because it was the law, can there be any doubt as to what attitude states and individuals should take toward a measure which has had the sanction of a vast majority of American citizens?"

"There is no problem before the nation today of greater significance or importance than that of law enforcement.

"The Eighteenth Amendment received more votes in the congress and was ratified by more states than any other constitutional amendment. It was an overwhelming expression of the will of the people.

"If the states one by one refuse to enforce prohibition . . . the federal government will be compelled to send into the non-cooperating states more inspectors and investigators.

"It (prohibition) cannot be adequately tested until every agency of the government, state and national, has given full cooperation," said the governor.

More Salesmanship Needed

THERE has been no end to the stir made regarding production of butter. We find county agents, and milk testing associations, and farm bureaus, and agricultural department, and every other kind of a department speeding up butter production by extending the territory, by weeding out inefficient cows, by improving the strain of producing cows, by improving barns and pasturage, etc.

Every creamery report one reads shows increased production of butter. With all this butter being made and piling up on a present surplus, some attention should be paid to the salesmanship, to educating people to use more butter and other dairy products.

Down in South America sisal farmers have united to stimulate sales of their sisal. Farmers can do the same with a butter product. True, here the Land O' Lakes Creameries, Inc., is doing wonders in butter sales, but it does not appear to be enough to handle the continually growing problem.

Every agency in a butter producing country should join in efforts to stimulate sales of dairy products. We must convert people. We must set an example by using the products.

Calendar Reform

To gauge business sentiment concerning calendar reform the Chamber of Commerce of the United States will submit by referendum to more than 1,600 organizations constituting its membership the question whether it is desirable from a business viewpoint.

This will be only a first step in determining whether the Chamber shall enter the lists as an advocate of the proposal, concerning which there is a divergence of opinion on the part of American business men.

A special committee of the Chamber appointed to consider the subject of calendar reform submitted a majority report recommending that the divisions of the year in the present calendar should be so changed that there will be greater uniformity in length and that the weeks should be fixed in relation to the divisions of the year in which they occur that there may be increased comparability between business results in the corresponding division of other years.

It is a matter of some difficulty to memorize lodge rituals. During the recent preparation for Elks ceremonies one met Past Exalted Rulers mumbling strange words as they walked down streets or attended to work in their homes. The younger fry can just eat up and digest words, but the older boys must devote more time to the matter.

APPROXIMATELY 8,000 farm men and women will attend a series of nine county economic conferences in North Dakota during February and March. Two day meetings will be held in the cities designated to entertain the conference. Local farmers will be in charge of the meetings.

SOME pressure has been brought to bear upon Earle Brown, superintendent of the state highway patrol, to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, but as yet he has turned a deaf ear to the proposal.

COUNTY roads are in excellent condition. The main traveled trunks and the county roads evidence care and attention paid them. Good footing is assured on many where the ground is exposed.

A NEW profit record for raising tobacco in Minnesota was established by Pius Wicker on a three-acre tract. Wicker realized about $800 from the crop.

A PROGRAM of ordinance recodification mapped out by city officials and the Lions club of Little Falls was considered at the last meeting of the service club.

MINNEAPOLIS will be host to more than 150 conventions this year. The conventions are expected to bring 50,000 delegates and visitors to the city.

AN airtight alibi is a good defense in some cases in court. But alibis do not win games.

The pace-setters

KEEPING-UP-WITH-THE-JONESES is no mere vagary of the cartooner. It is an actual condition in every city, town, village and hamlet of this great country.

There is a Jones in every locality to set the pace. But the average Jones is not a rich man—far from it. He has a good job, he dresses well, he is a good talker and splendid company. Jones is always the gentleman, welcomed at business conventions, public dinners and social gatherings alike. Mrs. Jones is envied as a successful hostess. Every woman in her set, and out of it, seeks bids to her bridge parties and other social functions. Their home is cozy, tastefully furnished and provided with most of the modern conveniences.

"How do they do it?" ask the neighbors. "We have as much money as they. Socially we are their equals." But without seeming to try, without putting on any "dog," the Joneses set the pace just the same. They have learned from reading advertisements how to have many desirable things at little cost. They keep up to date on almost everything—just reading advertisements.

Keeping-up-with-the-Joneses is a comparatively easy matter—other things being equal. Read the advertisements regularly. Study them. Remember what you learn. Then, when you are in the market for anything, you will know, just as they do, what kind to buy. Soon you'll find yourself saving money, yet having more than you ever had. You'll find folks wondering how you do it. Oh, yes! It's fairly easy, if you make the most of your opportunities.

Advertisements are opportunities . . . study them
to your own advantage

The pace-setters

KEEPING-UP-WITH-THE-JONESES is no mere vagary of the cartooner. It is an actual condition in every city, town, village and hamlet of this great country.

There is a Jones in every locality to set the pace. But the average Jones is not a rich man—far from it. He has a good job, he dresses well, he is a good talker and splendid company. Jones is always the gentleman, welcomed at business conventions, public dinners and social gatherings alike. Mrs. Jones is envied as a successful hostess. Every woman in her set, and out of it, seeks bids to her bridge parties and other social functions. Their home is cozy, tastefully furnished and provided with most of the modern conveniences.

"How do they do it?" ask the neighbors. "We have as much money as they. Socially we are their equals." But without seeming to try, without putting on any "dog," the Joneses set the pace just the same. They have learned from reading advertisements how to have many desirable things at little cost. They keep up to date on almost everything—just reading advertisements.

Keeping-up-with-the-Joneses is a comparatively easy matter—other things being equal. Read the advertisements regularly. Study them. Remember what you learn. Then, when you are in the market for anything, you will know, just as they do, what kind to buy. Soon you'll find yourself saving money, yet having more than you ever had. You'll find folks wondering how you do it. Oh, yes! It's fairly easy, if you make the most of your opportunities.

Advertisements are opportunities . . . study them
to your own advantage

BRAINERD HIGH RESUMES CAGE SCHEDULE HERE TUESDAY

TAKES ON STAPLES FOR FIRST GAME AFTER C-I LOSS

PEQUOT TO MEET SECONDS AT 7:10 P. M., MAIN EVENT AT 8 P. M.

REGULARS TO COME BACK WITH VENGEANCE; TEAM PLAYS AT MEMIDI FRIDAY

Brainerd high school will take on Staples at the Washington high school gymnasium tomorrow evening as the team resumes its basketball schedule after the hectic game at Crosby Friday evening.

The team will have to display a better brand of basketball than it did against the C-I boys if it expects to win.

On the other hand Brainerd will enter the fray with a vengeance to satisfy themselves that the Friday game was just one of those off nights when everything went wrong.

The home-town boys will settle down to their work in more their accustomed style and will be able to put into working the plays they have practiced on the home floor. Brainerd was handicapped, it must be granted, Friday evening by being unable to use plays intended for the C-I gym when the game was shifted at the eleventh hour to the armory.

The Pequot team and the seconds will furnish the excitement for the preliminary which will start at 7:10 P. M. The main event of the evening will get underway at 8 o'clock.

Friday the regulars will be off to Memidi, where they will meet the Locals, where they will meet the Locals dropped their opening game of the season to Memidi here on January 3 by the score of 30 to 22.

By "HAPPY"

In order to properly express ourselves we must again refer to Mr. Shakespeare. According to Mr. Tenny, Shakespeare in his work called Hamlet says, "There is something rotten in the state of Denmark."

And, oh, boy — there certainly is! Here my friends, is the latest dope on the mystery of the two teams in white suits the other evening up in the Crosby Armory. It seems that those maroon suits of Crosby-Ironton were turned in to the Crosby representative of the Brainerd Laundry at 4:30 P. M. on Friday, the day of the Brainerd-Crosby-Ironton game. And that is not all—those suits weren't brought to the Brainerd Laundry until Saturday noon—the day following the game!

Mr. Woock must have forgotten there was a game with Brainerd that evening when he sent the suits in. Don't you think so?

One of the fans who saw the game last Friday evening and previously favored the name of Warriors for the Brainerd high school lads has changed his mind. After seeing that last quarter he amended his choice to the name of "Redskins."

But suits or no suits—we are forced to admit that Crosby-Ironton has a fast ball club and although Brainerd has been progressing through the season, so has Crosby-Ironton. Last week Crosby-Ironton defeated Fargo. Fargo has defeated Moorhead this season and Moorhead, last year's state basketball champs, gained an early season decision over Crosby-Ironton.

That unquestionably makes Crosby-Ironton one of the leading quintets in the state. The boys on that team are good clean ballplayers too, and we hold them in no way responsible for the mystery of the white suits.

The Globe Trotters stretched their winning streak to five straight Saturday evening when they shaded Little Falls by one point. That basket made by Mr. LaCourse was certainly a timely one.

The Trotters missed Maclin and Marshall Saturday evening and they encountered a novel experience when Frankie Wise was out out on fouts. Manager Peterson didn't make the trip either. But, nevertheless, the Trotters came through. Those boys have a fighting spirit!

The Red Devils didn't fare so well at the hands of the St. Cloud Lions pucksters yesterday. Those Red Devils are comers, though, and with another season or two on the ice they will hold their own with any sextet on northern Minnesota rinks.

Three Brainerd boys, "Happy" Abrahamson and Lester and Arthur Hickerson, were practicing on the Glenwood skill jump at Minneapolis yesterday. The larger scaffold was not in use, but on the smaller one all three boys made standing jumps of better than seventy-five feet. They showed good form and very few spills were recorded. At a later date they will attempt to negotiate the large jump and perhaps enter a tournament late this month.

After losing to Crosby-Ironton, Brainerd, Wilmar and Buffalo, we are commencing to wonder if St. Cloud Tech still looks like the probable regional champ to the St. Cloud times.

If they are likely to be the regional

TROTTERS WIN 24 TO 23 CAGE GAME FROM LITTLE FALLS SATURDAY

PREPARE THIS WEEK TO MEET CROSBY RANGERS HERE NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

Russell's Globe Trotters chalked up another win to their credit by the close margin of 24 to 23 from Little Falls at the downtown town Saturday evening. LaCourse scoring the winning field goal in the last half minute of play on a long side shot. The final whistle sounded as the ball was brought back to center for the tip-off.

The victory was the fifth straight of the season. It was a see-saw affair with Little Falls putting up a strong tussle.

The Trotters played without the services of Martin and Marshall. Heikkinen and Nelson came through with long shots from the field. Gabiou was moved up to forward and scored three field goals. Frank Wise led the pack in scoring with eight points.

The Trotters will meet the Crosby Rangers here on Monday, February 17. This week will be devoted to practice in preparation of the Crosby battle.

FRITZ CRISLER IS NAMED THE HEAD COACH OF GOPHERS

WILL SUCCEED DR. C. W. SPEARS AT UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

TAD WIEMAN OF MICHIGAN IS SELECTED AS LINE COACH

Minneapolis, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Fritz Crisler, assistant coach at Chicago University, today was appointed head football coach at the University of Minnesota to succeed Dr. C. W. Spears. Tad Wieman of Michigan was named line coach.

The appointments were announced by President Lotus D. Coffman after a meeting of the university board of regents. He said Crisler and Wieman had accepted the positions previously and will report in time for spring football practice.

No comment was made concerning the opposition of alumni and student organizations to the appointments, which were made by a faculty senate committee and approved today by President Coffman and the board of regents.

The selection of Wieman and Crisler ended three weeks of activity by the senate committee, which began when Dr. Spears resigned to accept a coaching position at Oregon University. Among the score of candidates mentioned for the position were Tom Lieb of Notre Dame, Bernie Bierman of Tulane and Dutch Bergman, first assistant to Dr. Spears of Minnesota.

Crisler is a graduate of the University of Chicago where he won nine athletic letters in football, basketball and baseball. He received honorable mention on Walter Camp's All-American team in 1921 and was named on Walter Eckersall's first team.

He served several years as assistant at Illinois to Head Coach Alonzo Stagg who highly recommended him for the Minnesota position. His selection was sponsored by Fred W. Leuhring, director of athletics at Minnesota, and President Coffman.

Members of the senate committee, Leuhring and Dr. Coffman conferred with Crisler in Chicago several days ago and he accepted the position at that time. Wieman indicated several weeks ago he would be willing to come to Minnesota.

Salaries of the two coaches were not announced but it was believed Crisler will receive about $7,500 yearly. Wieman was believed to have accepted his position at considerably less than that figure.

ST. CLOUD DOWNS RED DEVILS, 3-0

TWO GRANITE CITY MEN, ONE BRAINERD MAN PENALIZED IN HOCKEY GAME

St. Cloud gave the Brainerd Red Devils their first defeat at hockey yesterday when they bulged the Brainerd hump for three goals in the game at the Granite City. Brainerd failed to tally.

Three penalties were given. Gabiou and Smith were each benched for one minute while Kollman served two minutes on the sidelines for unnecessary roughness.

Three games have been scheduled by the Brainerd hockey club, playing Ironton there next Sunday, Deerwood at a winter carnival at Deerwood on February 22 and a return game here with St. Cloud on Sunday, February 23.

The line-ups: Brainerd—Gabiau, c; Creger, Rofidal, wings; Luken, Macintosh, defense; Fox, goal; subs, Orth and Kampmann. St. Cloud—Smith, c; Kollman and Kouth, wings; Grueliet, Tanner, defense; Sparring, goal; subs, Strobel, Himel, Garig, Thiesen.

Referee—Schmidt, St. Cloud.

BUSTER MARTIN SAYS HE HAS FACED MACHINE GUNS, NOT AFRAID OF CARNERA

St. Louis, Feb. 10.—(UP)—A couple of rounds of shadow boxing and a few speeches will conclude Primo Carnera's training for his fight here tomorrow night with Buster Martin, Tulsa policeman.

Carnera's first platform appearance here proved to be a fiasco. Mounting a stage in a "Little Italy" dance hall after a triumphant tour through the district, the 275-pound fighting-man opened his mouth but no words came. He turned the meeting over to his manager, Leon Cie, who proceeded to drum up business.

Primo is to address Washington and St. Louis university athletes today.

Martin does his talking to reporters and is by no means speechless.

"In Tulsa my job is to duck machine-gun and shot-gun bullets, so why should I be afraid of an overgrown kid?" the Oklahoma copper said.

"It is about time someone is stopping Carnera, and I believe I can do it. He don't like to be hit in the stomach, I hear, and that's just the place where I'm going to concentrate my attack," Martin continued.

Martin, well over six feet in height and weighing 215 pounds, is scheduled to taper off with an easy workout today.

SLATTERY TO FIGHT SCOZZA TONIGHT

HOPES TO COME WITHIN STRIKING DISTANCE OF LIGHT HEAVY TITLE

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 10.—(UP)—Jimmy Slattery, playboy of the ring, comes within striking distance of the light heavyweight championship for the third time tonight when he squares off against Lou Scozza, a fellow townsman of Buffalo.

"Slats" has had two previous shots at the 175-pound title. He was soundly belted by Paul Berlenbach and outpointed by Tommy Loughran. As the class has no champion at present, the New York state athletic commission has agreed to recognize the winner of tonight's bout as title-holder for 60 days. Within that time, the winner must meet Maxie Rosenbloom in defense of the title.

Tonight's bout will be over the championship route, 15 rounds to a decision. Slattery is a 10 to 7 favorite; both men are light for the division, weighing about 167 pounds.

..IS SCOZZA ANOTHER MAN OF DESTINY?

THE NEW YORK STATE Athletic Commission will consider the winner of that all-Buffalo Slattery-Scozza bout, scheduled for tonight, as the world's light-heavyweight champion, but most well-informed fight fans will regard Maxie Rosenbloom as the real title holder. That disagreement will not last long, because it is planned to match "Rosey" with the Slattery-Scozza winner. And the real light-heavy champion should be revealed—until Mickey Walker enters that class or Larry Johnson, new negro star, gets a whack at the title.

Jimmy Slattery, of course, is a logical choice for that championship, because he is the one boxer who seems to have the old Indian sign on Rosenbloom, whom he has outpointed in three of their four bouts. Maxie has stopped boys who have whipped Slats, but the lively unorthodoxies of the New York City whirlwind are no mystery to Buffalo's fistic ghost.

Many think Scozza will wallop Slattery and Rosenbloom might like to have that happen. Of course, Maxie fears no light heavy, but Harlem's jolly-good-fellow may consider Jimmy to be a jinx. And "Rosey" probably would prefer to battle it out with Scozza rather than with the wrath-like Slats.

However, neither Slattery, Scozza nor Rosenbloom may don the crown, or wear it very long, this year if Larry Johnson, Chicago negro, is allowed to compete in these title eliminations.

The youthful Johnson is growing rapidly and may not be able to make the weight. If he can do so, managers of other stars in that class may not care to try him out, now that he knocked out the hardy Joe Sekyra and the tough Fred Lenhart within two weeks at the New York Garden.

If any boxing division ever had a real "black menace," Larry Johnson looms as such among our light heavies. Yes, this Chicago comer has the most soporific right hand since Jack Delaney was at his best.

THE NEW YORK STATE Athletic Commission will consider the winner of that all-Buffalo Slattery-Scozza bout, scheduled for tonight, as the world's light-heavyweight champion, but most well-informed fight fans will regard Maxie Rosenbloom as the real title holder. That disagreement will not last long, because it is planned to match "Rosey" with the Slattery-Scozza winner. And the real light-heavy champion should be revealed—until Mickey Walker enters that class or Larry Johnson, new negro star, gets a whack at the title.

Jimmy Slattery, of course, is a logical choice for that champion-ship, because he is the one boxer who seems to have the old Indian sign on Rosenbloom, whom he has outpointed in three of their four bouts. Maxie has stopped boys who have whipped Slats, but the lively unorthodox of the New York City whirlwind are no mystery to Buffalo's fistic ghost.

Many think Scozza will wallop Slattery and Rosenbloom might like to have that happen. Of course, Maxie fears no light heavy, but Harlem's jolly-good-fellow may consider Jimmy to be a jinx. And "Rosey" probably would prefer to battle it out with Scozza rather than with the wraith-like Slats.

However, neither Slattery, Scozza nor Rosenbloom may don the crown, or wear it very long, this year if Larry Johnson, Chicago negro, is allowed to compete in these title eliminations.

The youthful Johnson is growing rapidly and may not be able to make the weight. If he can do so, managers of other stars in the class may not care to try him out, now that he's knocked out the hardy Joe Sekyra and the tough Fred Lenhart within two weeks at the New York Garden.

If any boxing division ever had a real "black menace," Larry Johnson looms as such among our light heavies. Yes, this Chicago corner has the most seporific right hand since Jack Delaney was at his best.

LUCKY LINDY GROUP

Home Management Ladies Meet With
Mrs. Lois Holler and Miss
Sylvia Johnson

The Lucky Lindy group in Home Management met with Mrs. Lois Holler and Sylvia Johnson Thursday afternoon, Feb. 6, at the Dick Sagli home.

The lesson under discussion was on kitchen equipment. Methods of cleaning and care of utensils were also discussed.

Each member brought some special piece of kitchen ware that she found especially convenient. One particularly interesting piece was a can opener which is to be bolted to wall or table and holds the can as well as cuts the top. Each member felt that she had benefitted through this lesson. It was one of the most interesting we have had.

The final lesson will be on laundering and cleaning methods. This will be given on March 6 when the group will meet at the home of Mrs. C. W. Cunningham.

Following the Home Management meeting a short business meeting was held after which the hostesses served a delicious lunch of sandwiches, ice cream, cake and coffee.

There was a good attendance of members, two being absent due to illness. We also had three visitors.

Mrs. C. W. Cunningham, Lucky Lindy delegate to Homemakers Short Course briefly reviewed her notes. However her full report will be given at a later date there not being time at this meeting.

Philadelphians of a century ago held very pronounced views on Sabbath observance. It would appear from a contribution to a paper there at that time, inspired by the proposal of a Miss Wright to give a series of lectures on Sunday evenings in one of the city's theaters:

"The thanks of this community are due," said the article, "to your correspondent who has first noticed the outrage about to be committed by a female on the inhabitants of our city, and on all morals and social order next Sunday evening at the corner of Ninth and Walnut streets. Such a barefaced attempt at violating our religious institution has not, until now, been made, and it is to be hoped that the good sense of the people will be displayed by permitting this unfortunate female to witness her extreme folly and criminal culpability in the silent contempt of empty boxes and benches. The family was to occupy the new house very soon. Joan, ten years old, was going over the house with her mother on an inspection tour. She had evidently observed the rooms outfitted for the younger members of the family and on the walls of these rooms had been placed colorful nursery paper.

"Why, no, Joan; this nice front room with its pretty furnishings is for you."

"Mother," said Joan, "me studying fractions and have paper on the walls with all those billy goats on it!"

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

Recently a social dean of a college for young women told her students that "freedom in manners, as feminine stock, has now crashed to a low level, while being a lady has climbed sky high on the market."

She referred to the days of the grandmothers, when a young woman was judged even in such points as whether she could tie her horse to its hitching post gracefully, but declared that today's points for judging "ladylike" behavior were to be a hundred times more numerous and difficult.

Well, it will be a question whether it will be easier to climb with grace into a lofty-stepped street car, bus or train when wearing a long clinging dress than it was when a short sports frock could be all-day wear. The social dean continues, "today's fashions, more than any in the last decade, draw distinct lines between sports, afternoon, evening and office gowns, and crossing the line is no pardonable social trespass." This is certainly quite a powerful way of stating the case, and looks more like making a woman's clothes a "full-time occupation," as it is said designers have desired.

Brown, green and red have all been good, as color effects during the winter, with regal flashes of the "dahlia" or "fuchsia" shades, which after all, are only flowery ways of saying purple. Black has been a steady leader, and some of the most beautiful hats of the winter have been entirely in black. Straw hats are now of course with us, but their early coming does not disturb any woman as it did back in the years when January and February straws first made appearance. Women are reasonable beings—whatever some men may say to the contrary! And since they know that a felt hat is now proper to be worn on the hottest day of July, it will not be hard for them on the whole to keep an average in their hat wardrobe.

There are indications that the favored black and white, which is often one of the earliest of spring signs—arriving even before the classic bluebird—will be excellent this spring also. Navy blue and white, which is perhaps the most universally becoming combination in the world, is also in the minds of the designers.

Once in a while some one will appear in print, foretelling the vanishing of printed materials. But these are so entertaining to wear, so practical, so becoming that anyone who delights in a figured gown may feel safe in choosing it. Fabric makers have declared that they are preparing large assortments of printed goods, with patterns larger than those of last year, and effective colorings.

Whatever comes or goes, in the way of fashions, it does seem as though beads and fancy costume jewels might stay on forever. Dame Fashion looked in approving amazement the other day at a smiling young saleswoman who declared that in quite a short space of time women had bought 1,555 strings of beads from her! Suppose there is some one who has always had a longing for a string of bright red beads—here's hoping she buys it at once. Dame Fashion has a creed that if anything is really wanted—red pumps, a metallic hat or a pendant as large as a cracker—and sober sense counsels something somber, the holiday impulse should have sway. Napoleon said, "Quarter hours decide the destiny of nations." And who knows? Perhaps one pair of red pumps might change one's whole life.

FLAMES DESTROY BRUSSEAU HOME

Bucket Brigade Powerless to Combat Fire Fanned by Strong Wind at Farm

ALL FURNITURE SAVED

Barns and Cattle Saved by Wind Blowing in Opposite Direction; Farmers Fight Flames

Fanned by a heavy wind, fire swept through the six room farm home of Edmond Brusseau, two and one half miles south of the city on Sixth street Sunday. The fire leveled the house which was owned by P. E. Anderson. Fortunately the wind was blowing the opposite direction to the barns. These and their contents of cattle were untouched by the flames.

The fire started at 10:45 a. m. from what was believed defective wiring. Neighbors assisted Mr. Brusseau and his family in saving all of the furniture.

A bucket brigade in which 25 men formed a line from the well failed to combat the flames.

Mr. and Mrs. Brusseau and two children have been taken in by a neighbor, Jake Aufene.

The damage which was placed at $2,500 is partially covered by insurance.

WANTS RETURN OF BUTTER DAYS

Roth Suggests More Dairy Products be Used at Farmers Table

In the transition from the farm of 25 years ago to the modern farm of today, personal health is the important factor which has been overlooked in the agricultural set-up of today. In marketing his dairy products, so necessary for the best of health and vigor, the farmer has used less butter, milk and cream at his own table. Such is the opinion of County Agent E. G. Roth.

"One of the best things about the 'good old days' was the liberal use of common everyday foods—bread, plenty of butter, milk, cheese and garden vegetables," he reminisced this week. "When grandmother reigned in the kitchen, melted butter was added to vegetables to make them tasty—just as a matter of course. A big blue pitcher of milk always had its place at the end of the table—and it held a glass for each one in the family. Curds with cream was a popular breakfast dish. Cakes were made delicious with butter. Cookies, better-made because they were butter-made, filled the cookie jar."

"Dairy products were used abundantly in grandfather's day, because they cost nothing but labor. But they are economical today, too, because they are essential to health."

"Today, instead of trying to find a substitute for these home products—milk, cream, and butter—grandmother's example is the best one to follow, both from the standpoint of health and prosperity, without mentioning flavor."

Mrs. J. J. Madden, more widely known as Kitty Gordon, of Gull Lake died at the St. Joseph's hospital at 5 a. m. today after an illness at the hospital for three months. Her death was caused by heart disease.

Mrs. Madden came into fame throughout these parts by her claims to stage honors of years ago. Reminiscing, she told stories of success on Broadway and having played the Keith vaudeville circuit during its early days.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

DAGGETT BROOK'S SCHOOL REPORT

P. T. A. Presents Pleasing Three Act Play, "Cousin Julia's Jade Earring"

In spite of the cold weather the attendance for the month has been very good at the Daggett Brook school in District No. 19.

Six pupils have been neither absent nor tardy since school started. They are: Mabel Fleischacker, Jane Fleischacker, Julia Fleischacker, Marie Campbell, Lloyd Campbell and Ellen Buehler.

The honor roll shows five on the A with all marks above 90 per cent and two on the B. They are:

A honor roll—Adelaide Mertins, grade 3; Carol Nelson, grade 1; Beulah Fugate, grade 8; Ellen Buehler, grade 4; Lois Sewell, grade 1.

B honor roll—Marie Campbell, grade 2; Marjorie Fugate, grade 8.

The P. T. A. met on Friday evening, Feb. 7, where a large crowd enjoyed the program. A three act play, "Cousin Julia's Jade Earring," was put on. Mr. Tucker, the father, was played by Claude Shannon, Mrs. Tucker, the mother, by Rachel Fallon, Marjorie, the daughter, by Irene Young, Roddy, the football hero, by George Baer, Tommy and Beamy, two boys, by Gene Campbell and Eugene Dixon, Cousin Julia, the old maid, by Maude Thompson, Rosie, the Irish cook, by Eleanor Lutemire. The play had been coached by Alta Storm.

The Harmony Four of Brainerd sang several songs which were enjoyed and greatly appreciated. A clown act put on by Joe Swindell and Tom Walsh provoked much laughter. Valory Campbell gave two vocal solos and Mrs. Schiller and Mr. Eggerling gave some accordion selections.

A lunch was served during the social hour which followed for which a small charge was made. It was voted to purchase a gas lamp and new curtains for the school.

The next meeting will be held the first Friday in March for which Mrs. Francis Fallon, Mrs. Erick Nelson and Mrs. Willard Dixon have been appointed on the lunch committee. For the entertainment a committee composed of George Baer, Herbert and Miss Maude Thompson, teacher, were appointed.

To Attend Club Installation

Several members of the Brainerd Lions club will leave this evening for Royalton where they will assist with the exercises of charter night for the new Lions club which is being installed there. The Lions from Brainerd which are contemplating making the trip include D. C. Gray, Dr. C. E. Anderson, Dr. W. A. Erickson, R. L. Geist and J. H. Kinney.

PAST EXALTED RULERS HONORED

Present Entire Ritual of Elks Opening, Closing and Initiatory Forms Perfectly

PROGRAM OF ADDRESSES GIVEN

District Deputy on Official Visit, Past Exalted Ruler J. J. Nolan Honored

Thursday was a day replete with important happenings in Elks lodge circles. It opened with a dinner at Archer's Cafe tendered by officers and members to distinguished visitors.

At 8 o'clock the session opened at Elks Temple and the evening was a noteworthy one, with Past Exalted Rulers filling the chairs. Past Exalted Ruler J. J. Nolan presided. The chairs were filled as follows:

Exalted Ruler—J. J. Nolan.
Esteemed Leading Knight—John A. Hoffbauer.
Esteemed Loyal Knight—Fred Allison.

Esteemed Lecturing Knight—R. R. Gould.
Esquire—Dr. A. K. Cohen.
Secretary—J. J. Cummins.
Chaplain—A. J. Ellison.

Inner Guard—R. G. Jenkins.
Tiler—William V. Turcotte.
Treasurer—M. J. Reilly of Detroit Lakes.

District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler L. R. Johnston of Thief River Falls paid his official visit to the lodge and said that in the past five years Brainerd lodge had stood in the top ranks as a progressive lodge. He spoke of grand lodge policies, the endowment foundation, the magazine, and his belief that the per capita tax would be done away with in 1933.

The Harmony Four, composed of A. C. Mraz, William Anderson, John M. Eys and Melvin Bredenberg sang several selections. Dues were given by A. C. Mraz and R. G. Jenkins.
Lannie P. Horne, editor of the Jolly Elk, carried greetings from Minneapolis lodge and invited all to attend the 44th anniversary to be celebrated on April 26.

Past Exalted Ruler R. R. Gould spoke of progress achieved in Brainerd lodge.

Judge Wm. M. Ericson of Red Wing lodge, Past President of the State Association, mentioned three pleasant visits he had made to Brainerd lodge. He has been an Elk nearly 25 years. He praised the ritualistic work of the Past Exalted Rulers and the evident sincerity shown in their speaking.

Dr. B. J. Branton, of Willmar, First Vice President of the State Association, also congratulated the Past Exalted Rulers. He brought hearty greetings from C. F. Englin of Stillwater, President of the State Association. The State Association expected great things from Brainerd.

Dr. A. K. Cohen made the presentation speech and in behalf of lodge members presented a beautiful perculator to Past Exalted Ruler J. J. Nolan.

The social session included more songs and was closed with a boxing exhibition, a bit of fast motion, clever footwork and resounding taps by Frank Fuller of Brainerd and John Nichols of Duluth. They both weighed about 160 pounds each.

The luncheon served by Van's Cafe had chow mein as the chief dish.

FIRE IN CAR DOES DAMAGE OF $150

Fire Starts in Upholstery While Owner is at Bedside of Dying Woman

Fire broke out in the upholstery of a car while its owner was at the bedside of a dying woman at the St. Joseph's hospital last evening at 11:07 o'clock. The owner gave his name as Madden.

The car was parked in front of the hospital. Damage was estimated at $150. The blaze was extinguished by the fire department.

The department was also called out to a chimney fire at the home of Mrs. H. E. Paine, 307 North 5th street, at 9:25 a. m. yesterday. There was slight damage.

FORMER CITIZEN WRITES SERIAL

Mrs. J. R. Harmon, Sister of Mrs. Roy Hall is Author of "Peak Shadows"

"Peak Shadows," a novel with the Olympic Peninsula for its setting, written by Mrs. J. R. Harmon of Port Angeles, Calif., is being published in serial form in the Westerner a weekly magazine issued at Salt Lake City.

"The novel tells the story of an outdoor girl, whose romance takes place in this territory, much of the action centering around Lake Crescent," says a California newspaper. The name, "Peak Shadows," is suggested by the sharply outlined shadows cast by mountain peaks.

Paul Clowes, well known artist, is making the illustrations being used with the story, which will probably be in nine installments.

Mrs. Harmon is a former Brainerd girl, having attended both grade and high school in Brainerd. She is a sister of Mrs. Roy Hall.

WOMAN TO OPEN SAN AT MILLE LACS LAKE

Aitkin Woman Buys St. Albans Property; to Remodel Building

Plans for the remodeling of the buildings on the St. Albans property on a Mille Lacs Lake frontage site and the establishment of a sanatorium thereon have been announced by Miss Alyce Pederson formerly of Chicago.

Miss Pederson has purchased the tract of 58 acres which has a lake frontage of 80 rods from Fred Nichols and has already ordered the ice house filled. The property formerly included an hotel building which was destroyed by fire two years ago. Miss Pederson is a graduate of a Chicago college which specializes in the care and treatment of patients. She feels there is an opening for such an institution in this section.

FLAMES DESTROY BRUSSEAU HOME

Bucket Brigade Powerless to Combat Fire Fanned by Strong Wind at Farm

ALL FURNITURE SAVED

Barns and Cattle Saved by Wind Blowing in Opposite Direction; Farmers Fight Flames

Fanned by a heavy wind, fire swept through the six room farm home of Edmond Brusseau, two and one half miles south of the city on Sixth street Sunday. The fire leveled the house which was owned by P. B. Anderson. Fortunately the wind was blowing the opposite direction to the barns. These and their contents of cattle were untouched by the flames. The fire started at 10:45 a. m. from what was believed defective wiring. Neighbors assisted Mr. Brusseau and his family in saving all of the furniture. A bucket brigade in which 25 men formed a line from the well failed to combat the flames. Mr. and Mrs. Brusseau and two children have been taken in by a neighbor, Jake Aune. The damage which was placed at $2,500 is partially covered by insurance.

WANTS RETURN OF BUTTER DAYS

Roth Suggests More Dairy Products be Used at Farmers Table

In the transition from the farm of 25 years ago to the modern farm of today, personal health is the important factor which has been overlooked in the agricultural set-up of today. In marketing his dairy products, necessary for the best of health and vigor, the farmer has used less butter milk and cream at his own table. Such is the opinion of County Agent E. G. Roth.

"One of the best things about the 'good old days' was the liberal use of common everyday foods—bread, plenty of butter, milk, cheese and garden vegetables," he reminisced this week. "When grandmother reigned in the kitchen, melted butter was added to vegetables to make them tasty—just as a matter of course. A big blue pitcher of milk always had its place at the end of the table—and it held a glass for each one in the family. Curds with cream was a popular breakfast dish. Cakes were made delicious with butter. Cookies, better-made because they were butter-made, filled the cookie jar."

"Dairy products were used abundantly in grandfather's day, because they cost nothing but labor. But they are economical today, too, because they are essential to health."

"Today, instead of trying to find a substitute for these home products—milk, cream, and butter—grandmother's example is the best one to follow, both from the standpoint of health and prosperity, without mentioning flavor."

KITTY GORDEN DIES FROM HEART ATTACK

Death Comes to Woman Who Claimed Stage Success After Three Months Illness

DIES HERE EARLY TODAY

Was Resident of Gull Lake; Claimed Success on Broadway and Keith Circuit

Mrs. J. J. Madden, more widely known as Kitty Gordon, of Gull Lake, died at the St. Joseph's hospital at 5 a. m. today after an illness at the hospital for three months. Her death was caused by heart disease. Mrs. Madden came into fame throughout these parts by her claims to stage honors of years ago. Reminiscing, she told stories of success on Broadway and having played the Keith vaudeville circuit during its early days. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

DAGGETT BROOK'S SCHOOL REPORT

P. T. A. Presents Pleading Three Act Play, "Cousin Julia's Jade Earring"

In spite of the cold weather the attendance for the month has been very good at the Daggett Brook school in District No. 19.

Six pupils have been neither absent nor tardy since school started. They are: Mabel Fleischacker, Jane Fleischacker, Julia Fleischacker, Marie Campbell, Lloyd Campbell and Eileen Buehler.

The honor roll shows five on the A with all marks above 90 per cent and two on the B. They are:

A honor roll—Adelaide Mertins, grade 3; Carol Nelson, grade 1; Eulalia Fugate, grade 8; Eileen Buehler, grade 4; Lois Sewell, grade 1.

B honor roll—Marie Campbell, grade 2; Marjorie Fugate, grade 8.

The P. T. A. met on Friday evening, Feb. 7, where a large crowd enjoyed the program. A three act play, "Cousin Julia's Jade Earring," was put on. Mr. Tucker, the father, was played by Claude Shannon, Mrs. Tucker, the mother, by Rachel Fallon, Marjorie, the daughter, by Irene Young, Roddy, the football hero, by George Baer, Tommy and Beamy, two boys, by Gene Campbell and Eugene Dixon, Cousin Julia, the old maid, by Maude Thompson, Rosie, the Irish cook, by Eleanor Lutemire. The play had been coached by Alta Storm.

The Harmony Four of Brainerd sang several songs which were enjoyed and greatly appreciated. A clown act put on by Joe Swindell and Tom Walsh provoked much laughter. Valory Campbell gave two vocal solos and Mrs. Schiller and Mr. Eggerling gave some accordion selections.

A lunch was served during the social hour which followed for which a small charge was made. It was voted to purchase a gas lamp and new curtains for the school.

The next meeting will be held the first Friday in March for which Mrs. Francis Fallon, Mrs. Erick Nelson and Mrs. Willard Dixon have been appointed on the lunch committee. For the entertainment a committee composed of George Baer, Herbert and Miss Maude Thompson, teacher, were appointed.

To Attend Club Installation
Several members of the Brainerd Lions club will leave this evening for Royalton where they will assist with the exercises of charter night for the new Lions club which is being installed there. The Lions from Brainerd which are contemplating making the trip include D. C. Gray, Dr. C. E. Anderson, Dr. W. A. Erickson, R. L. Geist and J. H. Kinney.

"MASTER of MONEY"

BY ROY VICKERS

ALAN BRENNAWAY returns to New York after an absence of seven years in Mexico, where he made a fortune. Going to the dingy hotel he started from, his thoughts flash to Shirley Dane, society girl whom he loves. He visits Shirley and finds her more sympathetic and understanding than before. She tells him her father left her $200,000.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.
CHAPTER III.

HE interrupted her. "Fifteen thousand a year. From a capital of $200,000. Have you had a legacy since then?" "No. It's the interest, of course."

"By Jove! That's seven and a half per cent, you know! What have you got it in?" "I don't know. Cuthbert Kelton was the trustee. I left everything in his hands and soon I was getting much more. Don't look so alarmed, Alan. Anyone will tell you that Kelton and Rood are one of the best firms of lawyers in New York—though why they go on calling themselves Rood when Rood's been dead for—"

"I know Cuthbert quite well," cut in Alan. "He used to act for my father. Always admired him immensely. I'm going to look him up."

"Alan, he's dead—nearly a year ago. Roger has the helm now."

"Poor old Kelton! He was a comparatively young man, too. I can't imagine that indefinite youngster in his charge of a huge clientele."

"Roger isn't an indefinite youngster. He's a little older than I am—and he's very definite, indeed."

"Hello, Alan—oh, dear, I used to say 'Mr. Brennaway'! I'm sorry, but it's Shirley's fault."

Shirley's Aunt Marion had whirled into the big room and was busy welcoming him before Alan fully realized it. Mrs. Sibley was small, thin, dynamic. While she held Alan's hand her eyes roved over drawing-room and darted back to Shirley.

"Were you talking about Roger Kelton, darling?" She had cut negligently into Alan's inquiries as to her own health and happiness. You know, I think definite is the last word you can apply to him. The poor boy was left very badly off, Alan, only five or six thousand a year and the law business, I heard, and you certainly can't be very definite on that, I admit."

"I should have thought Cuthbert was wealthy," remarked Alan, uninterested.

"Oh, he was very. Very. But he had a big family. There were strings of legacies. Such a mistake. No tea, Shirley, I must dress. It takes much longer than it used to. You'll dine with us, Alan, won't you?"

"Yes, de," echoed Shirley. "We're going on to the Westburys afterwards. The English ambassador is expected to turn up and everyone will be there. You'll like to get into touch again."

It was on the tip of Alan's tongue to refuse. Shirley did not want what he most wanted to give; therefore he would offer her nothing.

Then, in a flash, time lost all its values. In a single second he passed through a number of subtle thought-processes. He was back at school writing out a hundred times the translation of some and Alan was doing his utmost not to crush Shirley's frock—a brief but glorious affair of orchid mauve and silver, with a sudden swathing of black fur.

She turned around and looked up at him.

"Isn't it an awful little rabbit-hutch?" he remarked. "Only the Westburys would dare."

To her it was an idle commonplace but to him a profound mystification. Westbury, he knew, had held a very minor post in the diplomatic service some years ago. Why was it that Westbury—and apparently only Westbury—would dare to ask some three hundred persons to a house that could not comfortably contain two hundred—guests who, as Shirley had explained, included "everyone"? And suppose Westbury were to overshoot the mark, what would be the penalty for too much daring?

Ahead of Them Was One of the Biggest Men Alan Had Ever Seen.

her eyes, trying to tell her that he had been a fool. . . .

"Thank you," he said, rather breathlessly. "I should like to go to the Westburys. I'll run along and change."

There was no obvious magnificence about the Westburys. But the Westburys had been rich and, at odd intervals, mildly distinguished for generations, and it had become the essence of their being that they need remind no one of those facts. Their house in Gramercy Park might have belonged to a prosperous business man.

Alan Brennaway, wedged with a score or so of others in the narrow hall, wondered almost with detachment how they would make their way to the staircase.

Mrs. Sibley, Shirley and himself had been forced into Indian file

"What does one do?" he asked Shirley. "Dance?"

"No," she answered—rather shortly, but the shortness, he thought, was because she had been addressed by someone two files away.

They reached the foot of the staircase which could just contain Shirley and Mrs. Sibley abreast. Ahead of them was one of the biggest men Alan had ever seen. Standing stock still with one hand on the bannister, he effectively blocked the staircase and obviously intended to do so until the staircase was clear.

"Who is that fellow?" asked Alan of Shirley. "That's Mr. Cynax," she answered. "Wall Street, you know. You must have heard of him?"

Winnie Lightner featured in "Gold Diggers of Broadway" A Warner Bros. Production

Winnie Lightner, the popular star of "George White's Scandals" and "Gay Paree," and Nick Lucas, vaudeville headliner and famous radio and recording artist, are two of the many Broadway musical comedy stars featured in the Warner Brothers all-talking, singing and dancing comedy "Gold Diggers of Broadway," showing at Paramount tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Lightner, whose hilarious antics are familiar to all New York theatre-goers, is at her best in a role of a dumb, gold-digging chorus girl. It is a role that allows Miss Lightner to run wild, and as running wild suits her to perfection, this popular star is right at home in her audacious screen debut, making merry from the first scene to the last fadeout.

Nick Lucas, best known on the "air" and on records as the "crooning troubadour," also sings a number of tuneful numbers, accompanying himself on the guitar.

Other stars featured in "Gold Diggers" are Ann Pennington, the diminutive, sparkling dancer of the Ziegfeld Follies, and Nancy Welford, last seen in the musical comedy "Rain or Shine." George Price, considered to be one of the cleverest dancers on the stage today, also makes a brief appearance, doing one of his specialty dances for which he is so well known.

Ancient City of Paris Has Had Many Masters

Upon a bit of an island shaped like a ship, and set in the river Seine about a half mile in length have been enacted some of the world's most historic scenes. Just prior to the Christian era a subtribe of Gauls, called Parisii, selected the place as one easily defended, and fortified it, calling it Lutetia. Today, walking along the "ship," you come to a short and narrow street, not more than a hundred feet long by six feet broad, the Rue de la Colombe. Here traced across the pavement is a narrow line of stones, showing where once stood part of the rude fortifications of those ancient Gauls who fought the Romans 2,000 years ago. And high above the ancient site, marking the advance of man, is strung from the roofs across the street the wires of a radio. Upon these ancient Gauls came the conquering Romans, who built a pagan temple to Jove on the site where a few centuries later was to rise Notre Dame, which has stood for 750 years in its completed grandeur. Followed the Franks from Clovis to Louis IX, who all dwelt upon the "boat." Louis IX built Sainte Chapelle church. Under Charlemagne in the year 800 the island became the capital of France. In that same century the Normans beat up the Seine in their long ships time and time again, laid siege to the city, sacked it and ruined the suburban abbey. Then follow 6 more peaceful times, till in 1163 the first stone of Notre Dame was laid, and still stands as chief adornment to the stern of the "ship." At one side of Notre Dame is the oldest hospital in the world, God's mansion, twin in age with Notre Dame. Indeed, if one were to deal fully with the "ship," the historic buildings upon it, and the relics they house today, they would be writing much of French history.

"MASTER of MONEY"

BY ROY VICKERS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

ALAN BRENNAWAY returns to New York after an absence of seven years in Mexico, where he made a fortune. Going to the dingy hotel he started from, his thoughts flash to Shirley Dane, society girl whom he loves. He visits Shirley and finds her more sympathetic and understanding than before. She tells him her father left her $200,000.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER III.

HE interrupted her. "Fifteen thousand a year. From a capital of $200,000. Have you had a legacy since then?" "No. It's the interest, of course."

"By Jove! That's seven and a half per cent, you know! What have you got it in?"

"I don't know. Cuthbert Kelton was the trustee. I left everything in his hands and soon I was getting much more. Don't look so alarmed, Alan. Anyone will tell you that Kelton and Rood are one of the best firms of lawyers in New York—though why they go on calling themselves Rood when Rood's been dead for—"

"I know Cuthbert quite well," cut in Alan. "He used to act for my father. Always admired him immensely. I'm going to look him up."

"Alan, he's dead—nearly a year ago. Roger has the helm now."

"Poor old Kelton! He was a comparatively young man, too! I can't imagine that indefinite youngster of his in charge of a huge clientele."

"Roger isn't an indefinite youngster. He's a little older than I am—and he's very definite, indeed."

"Hello, Alan—oh, dear, I used to say 'Mr. Brennaway!' I'm so sorry, but it's Shirley's fault."

Shirley's Aunt Marion had whirled into the big room and was saying welcoming him before Alan fully realized it. Mrs. Sibley was small, thin, dynamic. While she held Alan's hand her eyes roved over drawing-room and darted back to Shirley.

"Were you talking about Roger Kelton, darling?" She had cut negligently into Alan's inquiries as to her own health and happiness. You know, I think definite is the last word you can apply to him."

The poor boy was left very badly off. Alan, only five or six thousand a year and the law business, I heard, and you certainly can't be very definite on that, I admit."

"I should have thought Cuthbert was wealthy," remarked Alan, uninterested.

"Oh, he was very. Very. But he had a big family. There were strings of legacies. Such a mistake. No tea. Shirley, I must dress. It takes much longer than it used to. You'll dine with us, Alan, won't you?"

"Yes, de!" echoed Shirley. "We're going on to the Westburys afterwards. The English ambassador is expected to turn up and everyone will be there. You'll like to get into touch again."

It was on the tip of Alan's tongue to refuse. Shirley did not want what he most wanted to give; therefore he would offer her nothing.

Then, in a flash, time lost all its values. In a single second he passed through a number of subtle thought-processes. He was back at school writing out a hundred times the translation of some French proverb. "The more it changes the more it is the same thing." Of course it was the same thing! He had moralized, he had measured, he had priggishly rejected—and it all came back to the truth that he wanted Shirley—the touch of her, the sound of her voice, the right to hold to her lips the full cup she craved.

Life came to him as a revelation, as a wonderful discovery; and he saw himself a fool for risking it a hundred times, for risking the moment in which he should win her. . . . He was looking down into and Alan was doing his utmost not to crush Shirley's frock—a brief but glorious affair of orchid mauve and silver, with a sudden swathing of black fur.

She turned around and looked up at him. "Isn't it an awful little rabbit-hutch?" he remarked. "Only the Westburys would dare."

To her it was an idle commonplace but to him a profound mystification. Westbury, he knew, had held a very minor post in the diplomatic service some years ago. Why was it that Westbury—and apparently only Westbury—would dare to ask some three hundred persons to a house that could not comfortably contain two hundred—guests who, as Shirley had explained, included "everyone"? And suppose Westbury were to overshoot the mark, what would be the penalty for too much daring?

Ahead of Them Was One of the Biggest Men Alan Had Ever Seen.

her eyes, trying to tell her that he had been a fool. . . .

"Thank you," he said, rather breathlessly. "I should like to go to the Westburys. I'll run along and change."

There was no obvious magnificence about the Westburys. But the Westburys had been rich and, at odd intervals, mildly distinguished for generations, and it had become the essence of their being that they need remind no one of those facts. Their house in Gramercy Park might have belonged to a prosperous business man.

Alan Brennaway, wedged with a score or so of others in the narrow hall, wondered almost with detachment how they would make their way to the staircase.

Mrs. Sibley, Shirley and himself had been forced into Indian file

"What does one do?" he asked Shirley. "Dance?"

"No," she answered—rather shortly, but the shortness, he thought, was because she had been addressed by someone two files away.

They reached the foot of the staircase which could just contain Shirley and Mrs. Sibley abreast. Ahead of them was one of the biggest men Alan had ever seen.

Standing stock still with one hand on the banister, he effectively blocked the staircase and obviously intended to do so until the staircase was clear.

"Who is that fellow?" asked Alan of Shirley.

"That's Mr. Cynaz," she answered. "Wall Street, you know. You must have heard of him?"

Winnie Lightner featured in "Gold Diggers of Broadway" A Warner Bros. Production

Winnie Lightner, the popular star of "George White's Scandals" and "Gay Paree," and Nick Lucas, vaudeville headliner and famous radio and recording artist, are two of the many Broadway musical comedy stars featured in the Warner Brothers all-talking, singing and dancing comedy "Gold Diggers of Broadway," showing at Paramount tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Lightner, whose hilarious antics are familiar to all New York theatre-goers, is at her best in a role of a dumb, gold-digging chorus girl. It is a role that allows Miss Lightner to run wild, and as running wild suits her to perfection, this popular star is right at home in her audible screen debut, making merry from the first scene to the last fadeout.

Nick Lucas, best known on the "air" and on records as the "crooning troubadour," also sings a number of tuneful numbers, accompanying himself on the guitar.

Other stars featured in "Gold Diggers" are Ann Pennington, the diminutive, sparkling dancer of the Ziegfeld Follies, and Nancy Welford, last seen in the musical comedy "Rain or Shine."

George Price, considered to be one of the cleverest dancers on the stage today, also makes a brief appearance, doing one of his specialty dances for which he is so well known.
